FALL AND WINTER BULB PARADE

We are faced with many difficulties this year. Many bulb growers have gone out of business and the bulb acreage has been reduced in half as the other half has been devoted to vegetable growing.

Costs therefore have risen considerable but how could one put a dollar valuation on say a beautiful bed of flowering Ranunculus. Flowers from your florist would cost many times the price of your bulbs and you would have lost all the joy of growing them yourself.

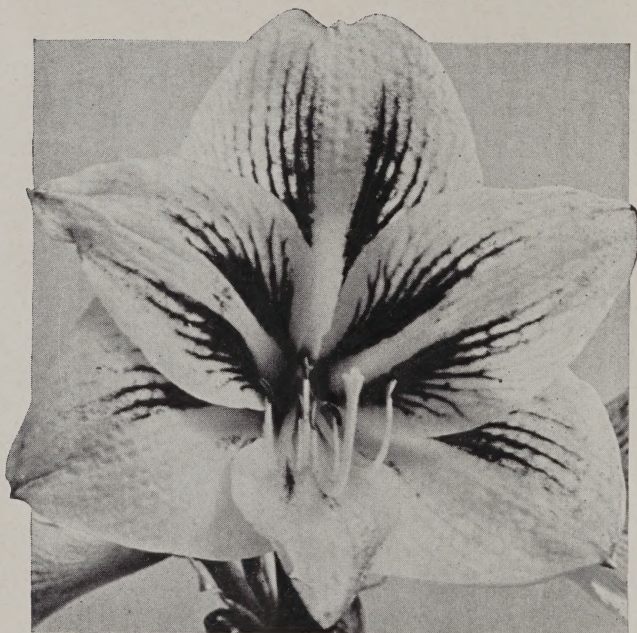

Listings in this catalog do not all arrive at one time. They will be shipped to you at their proper planting time. Get your complete order in now as many items will be very limited in supply.

Please do not ask us to ship C.O.D. as this requires extra labor and expense to us both. Please add the postage, the minimum is 10c, heavier shipments as listed, large shipments sent Express Collect.

Most of you who receive this catalog are old customers and we wish to thank you for your valued patronage and many kind praises for our bulbs. We shall always endeavor to please you and assure you the best to be had from the fields of only expert growers.

Sincerely,

BOB ANDERSON.

ANEMONES DE CAEN

(See Color Plate and Special Offer on Page 8)

Anemone Culture

In mild winter climates plant in the fall for late fall or winter bloom. Finer flowers result by blooming them in the cool part of the year. Later plantings can be made as long as bloom is not thrown into too warm weather. Soak the bulb for just a short time in cold water and plant in full sun with the point down. The top is rough where the old foliage was last year. Plant one to two inches deep according to size of bulb and do not water too much until they come up—In heavy soils an individual sand base for each bulb is recommended. Space bulbs 6 inches apart each way, 100 bulbs will plant an area 5x6 feet.
